

Howard T. Prince II Fellowship in Ethical Leadership

Howard T. Prince II has devoted his life to ethical service. As a highly decorated combat veteran and a respected educator, Dr. Prince has inspired generations of men and women to lead with integrity. In 1979, as the youngest colonel in the army, he was tasked with leading the newly created Department of Behavioral Sciences and Leadership at West Point, where he also played an important role in the integration of women.

After a successful career at West Point, Dr. Prince was tapped to lead the Jepson School of Leadership Studies at the University of Richmond - the country's first undergraduate-degree granting leadership program. In 1999, he joined the LBJ School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas at Austin, where he teaches a number of leadership and ethics courses and organizes the acclaimed Sumners Student Leadership Conference.

It was absolutely transformative to get to learn from Dr. Prince through his course and leadership conference. His thoughtful approach to helping aspiring leaders identify and attain their fullest potential is both something that has shaped me as a leader and is a source that I draw on when mentoring and helping to develop others.

- Beth Casey (LBJ '10)

As a soldier, scholar, and leader, Howard Prince exemplifies that leadership is more than a skill; it's an area of serious academic pursuit. His scholarship at West Point, the Jepson School at the University of Richmond, and the LBJ School has been exemplary.

Fellowship Particulars

The Howard T. Prince II Fellowship in Ethical Leadership will honor and celebrate Dr. Prince's legacy by providing fellowships to students of the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs who have demonstrated the strongest passion and potential to become great leaders.

This fellowship reflects the commitment Dr. Prince has made throughout his life to enhancing public service by investing in character formation and leadership development. We seek to raise funds to create an endowment that would annually award a full tuition fellowship to the most deserving student.

Leadership is one of the pillars of our society and there are few who exemplify like Howard T. Prince II. His role as officer, mentor and teacher has left a permanent impression on all around him. In honor of his dedication to the United States, academia and society, we believe it is right that we dedicate this leadership fellowship in his name.

With your help, we can make this fellowship a reality at the LBJ School of Public Affairs, and ensure that Dr. Prince's vision of developing the next generation of leaders becomes a reality.

Dr. Howard Prince has dedicated his life to developing leaders and his career is evidence of his own belief in ethical leadership. The Ethical Leadership Fellowship is a testament to his legacy and a way to continue investing in future generations of ethical leaders.
